Introduction

Earlier when there were no books , stories were passed on mouth to mouth these are what we call Folktales.
Folktales are inspired by events that have actually happened or by certain beliefs carried on generation to generation.

The nightingale

One day a king caught a nightingale
and wanted to put it in a cage.
But the bird spoke to him:

Let me go and I will give you a good advice. It may be of use to you someday

The rich man agreed to let it go.

The nightingale gave him these advices:
