Developing countries need trade not aid

© 2018 albert-learning.com

Vocabulary

Crucial: extremely important or necessary.

Prerequisite: something that must exist or happen before something else can existor happen.

Gaps: A gap can also be something lacking.

Gauge: to calculate an amount, especially by using a measuring device.

Metrics: a set of numbers that give information about a particular process or activity.

© 2018 albert-learning.com

Introduction

Developing countries play a vital role in the trade market, it is beneficial to the country in all the means in terms of economy and in the overall development of the country.

A country cannot keep asking for aid, it should start developing on its own, so trade is the only means through which the country can be successful in the future.

Today we live in a business world. Business is one of the biggest tools required to improve a country. It is also very essential for progress and is a crucial prerequisite to boost the economy of a country.

© 2018 albert-learning.com