Vocabulary

Startle: to be surprised or shocked by something unexpected. (Taken from the verb 'startle‘.)

Monotonous: not changing and therefore boring.

Global Nomads: a term applied to people who are living a mobile and international lifestyle. Global nomads aim to live location-independently, seeking detachment from particular geographical locations and the idea of territorial belonging.

To Be Sold on Something: to persuade someone that something is good, valuable, or useful.

Assets: property owned by a person or company, regarded as having value and available to meet debts, commitments, or legacies.
