Vocabulary

Amateurs: a person who is not skilled.

Homage: (formal) something that is said or done to show respect for somebody.

(For example: He describes his book as 'a homage to my father'.)

Vehemently: in a way that shows very strong feelings, especially anger.

Palatable: (in this context) pleasant or acceptable to somebody.

(For example: Some of the dialogue has been changed to make it more palatable to the audience.)

Grey area: indeterminate territory, undefined position, neither here nor there.

(For example: There's a large grey area between what is legal and what is not.)
