Socializing inside the company

© 2018 albert-learning.com

Vocabulary

Socializing: the action or practice of participating in social activities or mixing socially with others; the action or process of causing a person to behave in a way that is acceptable to their society.

Coworkers: a person with whom one works, typically someone in a similar role or at a similar level within an organization.

Workplace: a place where people work, such as an office or factory.

Relationships: the way in which two or more people or groups regard and behave toward each other.

Productivity :the effectiveness of productive effort, especially in industry, as measured in terms of the rate of output per unit of input.

Apt: suitable or right for a particular situation.

Notch: an imaginary point or position in a comparison of amounts or values; degree.

© 2018 albert-learning.com

Introduction

The conversations that people have at work are not always about work. It is appropriate at certain times to socialize, or talk to other people about non-work-related things.

Some people might find it hard or uncomfortable to socialize with their manager. The difference in status, or rank, at work can lead to a social obstacle, making conversation more difficult. It's important to try to socialize with whoever is in charge and build a relationship with them. Try to learn about the manager's interests. Finding topics of the manager's interest, is a good place to start.

© 2018 albert-learning.com