What is a Personal Pronoun?

Personal pronouns are words we use for specific people or things, instead of the nouns or names to avoid their repetition.

We use personal pronouns in place of the person or people that we are talking about.

e.g. My name is Jenny but when I am talking about myself I almost always use "I" or "me", not "Jenny". When I am talking directly to you, I almost always use "you", not your name. When I am talking about another person, say Albert, I may start with "Albert" but then use "he" or "him". And so on.

The personal pronouns in English are:

I, You, He, She, It, We, They, Me, Him, Her, Us, Them etc.
