What Are Imperatives?

- The request, command, suggestion or advice used in a sentence is called an imperative.
- The sentences that contain imperatives are called imperative sentences.

Examples:

1. Be quiet!
2. Come here!
3. Speak to her!
4. Stay at home!

- In these sentences, the words 'Stop, Come, Speak, Stay' are called imperative verbs.
- These verbs are used to give orders, commands, instructions or request.

- Imperative sentences often have a verb at the beginning of the sentence.
- An imperative sentence is spoken to another person.
- Adding 'do not' to an imperative sentence makes it negative.
