

Types of Interview

Vocabulary

Rapport: a good understanding of someone and an ability to communicate well with them.

To tailor something: to adjust something to suit a particular need or situation.

Disruptive: causing trouble and therefore stopping something from continuing as usual.

To gauge something: to calculate an amount, especially by using a measuring device.

Pool (in this context): a number of people who are available to work.

Trial run: a practical test of something new or unknown to discover its effectiveness.

Introduction

Every employer has a preferred style of obtaining the information they need for their hiring decision.

Today we'll see some basic types of interview styles you may encounter. Some employers may choose to utilize a combination of different styles, but as long as you've prepared well for your interview, you'll be able to adapt to the situation they present.

